Not illustrated. 1857 Excerpt: .governing authority, or surveyors to be appointed to act only for one year. The principal alterations introduced into the law affecting highways by the last Highway Act, passed in 1835, are as follows: --The surveyor under the old law was virtually selected by the magistrates; under the new law he is chosen by the inhabitants in vestry assembled, and in places where there is no vestry, at a public meeting of the ratepayers. The time of election is altered from the autumn to the spring, when the other parochial officers are chosen. Statute-labour and all compositions in lieu thereof are abolished; and the expense attending the repair of all highways is to be defrayed by a rate levied in the same manner as the poor rate. Provision is made for the appointment of a board of managers in populous districts, to discharge the duties of surveyors. Parishes may unite for the purpose of forming unions or districts for the management of the roads, and district-surveyors may be appointed with salaries. The law with reference to widening highways remains unaltered. The mode of diverting and stopping up highways is entirely different from that under the old law, where two magistrates could hi the first instance make the order, subject to an appeal to the bench of magistrates at Quarter Sessions. Now, after certain notices had been given, and certain prescribed forms observed, which must be certified by two magistrates, the order is taken to the Quarter Sessions,...
